part 48

For the drawing exhibition Meaning Making of Marijn van Kreijl we contributed a first draft of a video containing noticings, based on Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing's idea of the Art of Noticing. In her text Tsing states that we should 'look around rather than ahead'. The video shows short clips of worms and termites and other plants and animals that we encountered in residencies and during walks. The video could be seen as loose and associative relating to the drawings of Marijn in being traces and marks of ways of seeing. The soundtrack comes from improvisations sessions that later were edited. To support the video the text of Tsing and a few other texts out of our pirate copies series ily cere cahiers were available for visitors to be taken home.
